- 9 Madeline Island Heritage Center: Supported by the Madeline Island Historical Preservation Association, the story of the Island's history and its families is told through archival items that reflect life from the late 19th to early 20th century. Among the furnished buildings is the first protestant parsonage; the Angus House containing an early family archive of lake travel and fishing; the one-room Lakeview School which operated from 1905 to 1938; and a 130-year-old log bunk house from the pioneer Cadotte farm. The site also hosts a Veteran's Honor Garden and two murals of Island life.
